PETERSBURG, VA., Dec. 19, 1887. collision occurred on the Norfolk and Western railroad in this city last night, caused, it is believed, by the malicious act of parties unknown, who are believed to have been engaged in robbing the company's trains of coal. To put a stop to the losses from this source, which have of late become very annoying and quite heavy, the company has employed the services of a special detective from Philadelphia, through whose watchfulness several negroes have been arrested and prosecuted, and it is thought that this act of self-protection has given rise to retaliation. Shortly before 8:30 o'clock last night Train No. 45, consisting of over thirty gondolas loaded with coal, moved out of the depot on its way to Norfolk. It had only gone a few hundred yards when the train left the main road and ran on to a side track, on which a number of empty cars had been temporarily shifted. The change of track was caused by a mischange of their was caused by a line placed switch, which, as stated above, is believed to have been misplaced intentionally and with malice. When the man descended with his bag his bag of coal against him, and then ran away. The detective commanded the fugitive to stop, but the command was unheeded. Resting upon his knees, the officer drew his pistol and fired. The shot took effect and brought the man to a halt. It was found upon later examination that the ball had entered the lower part of the back, and passing inward lodged in the upper portion of the thigh, just below the groin. The wound, while painful, is not regarded by the physicians as dangerous, wounded man was taken from the jail to his home for treatment. Mr. T. A. St. Clair, one of the deputies employed at the city jail, was assaulted this morning by a colored man named Mabry, who was admitted as a visitor to the jail premises. Mr. St. Clair had occasion to speak to Mabry by reason of his conduct towards one of the female prisoners, and the latter retorted in a manner that caused the officer to threaten to have him put out; thereupon Mabry struck Mr. St. Clair a blow in the face. Mabry was arrested and carried before the Mayor, who fined him ten dollars and sentenced him to three months' imprisonment in jail. From this decision the prisoner took an appeal to the Hustings Court.

Madison C. H., Va., Dec. 17, 1887.

At the last term of the County Court there was a petition for a road from Russel ford through the land of Mr.

John Hisel and others to a point on the road from this place to the Lutheran church. Mr. Hisel opposed the scheme and was represented by Messrs. Hill and Jeffries. Mr.

T. Smoot appeared for the petitioners. The case excited considerable interest, a large number of witnesses being summoned on both sides. Judgment was rendered in favor of the petitioners. An appeal to the Circuit Court was spoken of, but that idea was abandoned. To-day the Board of Supervisors made the ailowance for the opening of the road.
